

ANSWERS TO FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS IN GROSS v. UNITED STATES

Is entering the judgments the last step?

No. As we indicated in our original notices to potential class members, the Government has 60 days to appeal from the date the Court actually enters judgments. The entry of judgments will be reflected as a new entry on the case docket. If there is an appeal, the final resolution (and any payments) is likely to be delayed approximately a year or more.

If there is no appeal, we will post information as to how long it will be before payments are made to our voicemail notification system, set up as Option 4 on the Alterman & Boop LLP phone number of (212) 226-2800, and on our website at www.altermanboop.com

Can I challenge the total Sunday hours I am being credited with?

In the context of the Gross case, the answer to this is “no.” The data on which the calculations are based comes from the Government’s payroll records derived from the actual hours you inputted into your computers on a daily or weekly basis. If there was any payroll period when you did not get paid for the total hours you worked, or you believe you were paid the proper number of hours, but you were credited with too few Sunday hours; you would have to consult with your own counsel to determine if there is any means to “appeal” and the time limits for doing so. This is something on which we, as Class Counsel, cannot represent you. Nor can we provide individual advice.

Will I be paid for Sunday hours going forward?

If there is no appeal, then we would expect all Sunday hours to be paid going forward and most likely from the beginning of 2018. If the Government appeals, you would not likely get Sunday premium pay going forward unless and until that appeal is heard and rejected.

Will accrued interest be included in the award?

The calculations we are submitting to the Court will include interest at least through June 2, 2018.

Will attorney fees/costs come out of my judgment?

At present, we do not know with certainty whether attorneys fees and costs will be paid out of the individual awards or will be awarded separately by the Court, but we do anticipate that we will be requesting these fees and costs from the Government. In no event will attorneys fees and costs be payable without the Court's approval. There also will be notice to all Opt-In Class members when the motion for attorney fees and costs is made.
